STUDENT PUT TO DEATH FOR IRISH RIOTING

First Execution At Dublin For Century Result Of Uprising In Erin

NEW OUTBREAKS OCCUR

Police Murdered And Attack On Station Is Made By Civilians

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 1.—In spite of the desperate efforts, which were made to obtain his reprieve, a medical student at Dublin, named Barry, was executed this morning, following on his conviction for having participated in an attack on soldiers. This is the first execution which has taken place at Dublin for a century.

London, October 30.—A continuous procession throughout the day filed past the catafalque of Lord Mayor MacSwiney in the City Hall at Cork. Business was entirely suspended this afternoon white, except in Ulster, there was no football or other athletic events anywhere in the country.

London, October 31.—The funeral rites of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney passed off peacefully at Cork today, with becoming pomp and dignity.

LONG PROCESSION

A requiem Mass was held in the Cathedral, to which the remains were removed from the City Hall. The cortage was one-third of a mile long, headed by members of various religious orders, priests and Irish and Australian prelates. Then came the coffin, followed by representatives of Dail Eireann and other republican organisations.

At a slow march the procession made its way along the three-miles from the city to St. Finbar's Cemetery, where Irish Volunteers fired a volley over the grave. The route was thickly crowded throughout its length, and was lined by volunteers in mufti, the orders of the authorities against the donning of republican uniforms and Sinn Fein badges having been obediently observed.

TROOPS ON DUTY

Small bodies of troops and police were posted at intervals, and also armored cars, but there was no call for intervention. An aeroplane hovered above the city for a short time.

New York, Nov. 1.—An Associated Press message from Dublin states that a District Inspector of Police was killed last night by a grenade. A police sergeant has been killed at Tullamore, King's County, and two constables killed at Killorglin, County Kerry. Civilians destroyed the police barracks at Littleton, County Tipperary, yesterday.

POLICE MURDERED

London, Nov. 1.—Reports from Ireland indicate an intensifying of the Sinn Feinn campaign. A summary of events shows that yesterday evening 14 attacks were made upon police and military, resulting in the murdering of six policemen and the wounding of eight and also of a military sergeant and a naval driver.

London, Nov. 1.—Some newspapers have published highly-colored accounts, evidently emanating from Sinn Fein sources, of the damage at Templemore, County Tyrone, believed to be in reprisal for an attack on a military lorry at Tipperary on Thursday last when three soldiers were killed and five wounded.

The question was raised in the House of Commons this afternoon by Mr. J. Devlin. Sir Hamar Greenwood, replying, said that the facts were that the local police, assisted by the townspeople, had succeeded in confining the flames to two houses and the Sinn Fein District Council had thanked the police.

INQUIRY MADE

He said that he was making the fullest inquiry into the matter and advised Mr. Devlin never to depend upon Sinn Fein information in the future.

Replying to questions with regard to Sinn Feiners using expanding bullets, in which connection Sir W. H. Davison urged the proclamation of martial law in order to enable the death penalty to be inflicted upon those in possession of such bullets, Mr. Lloyd George said that in his opinion even if martial law were proclaimed, the object in view could not be secured without special legislation and that the Government was considering the matter.

Provinces Make Protest Against Consortium Loan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, November 3.—The following semi-official statement was issued today:

"The Government is receiving numerous telegrams from the provinces, expressing disapproval of the Consortium.

"Representatives of Chinese banks visited the Government yesterday and demanded the carrying out of strict disbandment of the soldiery, the retrenchment of public expenditure and the drawing up of a program of financial reform. The bankers stated that, if funds were required for this purpose, the Chinese banks would devise a means to raise what was necessary."

With regard to the general situation it is pointed out that when Admiral Tang took over control of Canton, he reported the fact to the Central Government, his attitude being friendly. The Government, therefore, does not anticipate any difficulty in arranging the appointment of Southern officials.

LEGISLATIVE OBSTACLE

"The main obstacle lies with the members of the Old and New Parliaments, who oppose the election of another Parliament at Peking.

"The members of Parliament are secretly instigated by the Anfuites to oppose the program of unification. This can be ignored. Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Dr. Wu Ting-fang and Tang Shao-yi, who are not members do not represent the Southern Parliament. They have issued a statement, which the Government thinks that it can

MINERS' UNIONS THREATENED BY STAND ON STRIKE

Possibility Of Split In Major Organisation Seen In Britain

UNWELCOME SURPRISE

Welsh, Lancashire And Cheshire Were Expected To Accept Terms

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 31.—The decision of the South Wales Miners' Conference and the Lancashire and Cheshire Executive to recommend rejection of the terms offered for settlement of the coal strike came as an unwelcome surprise.

While it was known that the extremists were working their hardest to obtain rejection of the settlement, it was never anticipated that their machinations would be so completely successful. It is significant that the decision in South Wales was practically unanimous and was taken in defiance of the advice of Mr. Brace, M.P., President of the South Wales Miners' Federation, who travelled down specially to counsel acceptance. It appears that Mr. Brace made strenuous efforts to reverse the decision, but without avail.

It is considered certain that if the ballot results in rejection of the settlement as a consequence of the South Wales and Lancashire votes, complete severance of the South Wales Federation from the parent body will follow.

Messages from other big centers indicate strong feeling in favor of peace, and it is asserted that, whatever the result of the ballot, the miners outside South Wales and Lancashire will return to their pits during the coming week.

PRINCE PAUL TO PUT THRONE IN PEOPLE'S HANDS

New Attempt To Restore Constantine May Be Made At Elections

(Reuter's Service)

Lucerne, October 31.—The notorious Constantinist, Dr. Streit, states that Prince Paul has received an offer of the Greek throne but that Prince Paul has replied that the throne belongs to Constantine whose successor is Prince George.

Neither has renounced the succession and Prince Paul therefore only consents to ascend the throne in the event of the Hellenic people definitely deciding against the return of ex-King Constantine or Prince George.

Paris, November 2.—Certain information leads to the belief that the supporters of ex-King Constantine of Greece mean to seize the opportunity afforded by the elections to strike a fresh blow in Greece for the restoration of the ex-monarch.

Unknown Sailor To Lie With Soldier In Westminster Abbey

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 31.—In connection with the arrangements to bury an unknown warrior in Westminster Abbey as a tribute to the army's deeds during the war, it is now suggested that an unknown sailor should be also reinterred in the Abbey.

It is considered that in view of the navy's share in winning the war it would be most fitting if a soldier and sailor were laid in the Abbey side by side.

ANTI-JAPANESE LAND LAW IS ADOPTED IN U.S.

Californians Vote For Drastic Measure After Washington Reassures Nipponese

(U. S. S. B. Wireless)

San Francisco, November 3.—Incomplete returns from 453 precincts point to the adoption of the anti-Japanese land law by a vote of about 5-1. Early returns:

For the law	5845
Against	1859

San Francisco, November 2.—San Francisco voted for adoption of the anti-Japanese land law by a count of 2,096. Only 598 votes were cast in this city against the adoption of the law.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, November 1.—A reassurance has been given to the Japanese Embassy by the State Government that no anti-Japanese legislation in California "will be acceptable to the country at large that does not accord with existing and applicable law, with the national instinct."

This is announced in a formal statement from the State Department which has been prepared by Mr. B. G. Davis, Under-Secretary of State, in response to inquiries.

TREATIES AN ELEMENT

The statement further said: "California's case regarding the laws affecting aliens has the close interest and attention of the State Department. The relations of certain treaty provisions to the proposed measure are being discussed clearly and ably in California, and will doubtless prove an element in the State's decision as to the adoption or rejection of the proposed measure.

It may be mentioned that the State Department has had a number of discussions of a most friendly nature with the Embassy of Japan, and it is believed to be thoroughly realised, as we have sought to make clear, that no outcome of the California movement will be acceptable to the country at large which does not accord with the existing provisions of the law, and, what is equally important, with every instinct of justice."

FIRST OFFICIAL STATEMENT

The foregoing statement is the first issued by the State Department on the California land question, which has been the subject of long conversations between the State Department and the Japanese Embassy. The fact that it was issued immediately prior to the elections is declared to have no political significance.

Republicans Sweep Into Office On Real Landslide; Even Ohio Against Cox

Women Vote To Stay At Home And Keep The Boys Out Of European Affairs; New York Goes Republican For President And Democratic For Governor

Senator Warren Gamaliel Harding of Marion, Ohio, Republican has been elected President of the United States. With Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, the Vice-President elect, Harding swept the country, the Republicans making impressive victories in 21 States.

The Democrat Candidates, Governor James M. Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt, won in 12 States.

Returns from 15 states have not been received. Harding is certain of 275 electoral votes. Cox has but 136. The required number to elect is 266.

Substantial gains in both houses assure a Republican Senate and House of Representatives, Republican leaders claiming a gain of eight, and possibly ten in the Senate.

New England, New York, the Central States, the Middle West, the Northwest, the Pacific Coast—all America with the exception of the South, went Republican in one of the greatest landslides in the history of the United States.

California, too, made history, for her citizens by an emphatic majority passed the anti-alien land law, aimed particularly at Japanese who have acquired large tracts of territory in the State. The new statute will not permit possession of land by Japanese.

For the first time women voted all over the country for an American President and the Republican victory emphasises the conservatism of the feminine element in American politics. Four years ago the women practically elected Woodrow Wilson when his platform was non-interference in foreign affairs. On Tuesday they reiterated their declaration of November, 1916.

There were other high lights in the election. Alfred E. Smith, Democrat, was re-elected Governor of New York State though the state went solid for Harding, James D, Phelan was beaten in the California senatorial contest. Four Socialist members of the New York State legislature, twice denied their seats, were again re-elected. They were expelled, returned at a special election and are now again restored to their seats. Thompson's Tammany machine in Illinois evidently swung through to another overwhelming victory.

And Harding carried his own state of Ohio.

Publication of the following complete details of the election is possible through the enterprise of American wireless operators on ships and at stations in Shanghai, the men working all day to pick up stray bits of news from various stations on the West Coast of the United States, Pearl Harbor in Honolulu, Cavite in the Philippines, Guam and from ships at sea:

New York City, November 2.—At 12:30, with returns far from complete, Harding seemed certain of 275 electoral votes. The following states were conceded to the Republican candidate: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nebraska, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Columbus, Ohio.—The heavy down-pour of rain in Ohio threatened to delay the casting of what promised to be a record vote for Ohio in one of the Nation's hardest-fought political campaigns. It is expected that 2,000,000 votes will be cast in Ohio. The previous record is 1,165,000.

NEW YORK RESULTS

New York City, November 2.—The Republicans made a clean sweep of the State except in the contest for governor. In 5,586 precincts out of 7,308 in New York state, Harding received 1,498,934 and Cox received but 638,445. If this ratio is maintained, Harding will carry the state by the unprecedented majority of 1,125,000 votes.

Senator Harding wired Chairman Will H. Hays of the Republican National Committee expressing "great gratitude for the successful management of the campaign."

Manila, November 3.—Harding issued a statement to the Nation accepting the responsibility placed upon him according to a radio message received here. Latest returns show a Republican victory by three to one. Cox is sure of but 136 electoral votes.

WOMAN'S VOTE HEAVY

New York City.—Before noon scattering reports from all parts of the United States indicate that men and women alike are defying the elements and going early to discharges the ancient prerogative and cast the vote, a new privilege for the women.

In several states, notably Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia polls, the women were more numerous than the men in the morning balloting. Final day pre-election tension brought no let down in confidence on the part of the major party leaders.

Chairman White began the day by saying that Cox and Roosevelt would be elected. He predicted substantial gains in the House and Senate.

Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, refused to give out a statement, saying only: "I am mute for the present."

New York, November 2.—The New York World at nine o'clock this evening conceded the election to Senator Harding, despite the fact that no western returns had yet been received.

Senator Harding carried the states of New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut with large pluralities.

STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN

New York, November 1.—As election day approaches, the campaign, which has been strenuous throughout, is becoming more intense. The supporters of both Senator Harding and Governor Cox are heralding victory for their respective leaders in advance, but the betting in favor of Senator Harding is quoted as high as 8 to 1.

The general verdict of the newspapers is that Senator Harding is certain of victory, though not by a large majority, as there has recently been an undoubted swing in favor of his opponent. The betting of 8 to 1 in favor of the Republican nominee is stated to be the longest odds on a presidential election since 1888.

HARDING'S STATEMENT

Marion, Ohio, Nov. 1.—Senator Harding has made the statement that "We've made the best fight we know how, and we await the result with complacency."

The candidate's speeches totalled 181, and were delivered in 16 States, most of them from the rear platform of his railway car.

New York, Nov. 1.—The weather is considered to be an important factor as affecting the number who will turn out to vote, particularly in isolated districts.

The party leaders expect a swollen poll, owing to the participation of women voters, and they do not consider that a downpour of rain would discourage enough voters to bring the total of votes cast below that of 1916.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Mr. J. T. Adams, Vice-Chairman of the Republican National Committee at the Western headquarters, has predicted that every northern and western State will vote Republican.

San Francisco, Nov. 2.—Early returns indicate that Senator Harding will carry California with a heavy vote.

Harding's Victory Popular In Shanghai

Harding's victory was a popular one here according to the number of impromptu celebrations which were held in places of public gathering about the city last night.

At the various hotels and cafes American residents and transients gathered to congratulate each other on the switch in administrations and to toast the new regime. If appearances were to be judged, few of the Americans at present in Shanghai had much wagered on the chances of the Democratic candidate.

S. Fessenden, Esq.,
Jernigan, Fessenden and Rose,
No. 2, Kiukiang Road,
Shanghai.

Dear Mr. Fessenden: It is with extreme sorrow that we learn of the death of Honorable T. R. Jernigan, senior member of your firm and for many years one of the leading members of the American community in China.

Mr. Jernigan during his long residence here has been intimately acquainted and associated with the development of American business and American interests in this part of the world. He served as Consul-General at Shanghai during the period of the Russo-Japanese war and assisted a great deal in the preservation of American interests in this part of the world during those trying days. In the practice of his profession since his retirement from official life he has been of tremendous service to the development of American business and the cultivation of closer relations between the American and Chinese people Many American firms owe a great deal to his sound counsel and advice. Recently in our various discussions and negotiations pertaining to a Federal Incorporation Law for American companies Mr. Jernigan has been of tremendous value to this Chamber.

Through his writings he has gained a wide following not only in this part of the world but also at home. In addition, thousands of educated Chinese and also the various foreign nationalities residing in China have come to know him through his writings Practically every word that he wrote was translated in the Chinese papers and certainly has had a great influence upon the various Chinese leaders who are trying to develop a modern constitutional government. His writings on the American Constitution are standard works and will always be referred to by those in search of sound information regarding our system of government.

It is such men as Mr. Jernigan who really typify the American ideal and spirit and nothing that we could say would adequately express our appreciation of him and his work.

We know that the inspiration of Mr. Jernigan's life will live for many years among Americans in the Orient and will serve as an incentive to all of us who are trying so hard to uphold American ideals and principles in this part of the world.

We shall appreciate it if you will bring this letter to the attention of Mr. Jernigan's associates in the practice of law in Shanghai and also to the attention of members of his family.

Again expressing our sorrow and sympathy, we are,

Very truly yours,
American Chamber of Commerce of China.

Jobs Sought For Former Service Men

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 30.—The Ministry of Labor is making a great effort to settle in industry the ex-service men who are still out of employment. The Ministry is instituting an "Obligation Week," to be held from November 7 to 14, when an intensive campaign will be conducted throughout the country to commemorate the anniversary of the armistice in this way. It is estimated that at present there are 250,000 ex-service men unemployed.

Crown Prince Acts For Mikado In Ceremony At Grandfather's Shrine

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, November 2.—This morning, in perfect autumn weather, in lieu of the Emperor, the Crown Prince Hirohito was the first to pay homage at the shrine dedicated to the memory of his illustrious grandfather. The youthful Prince wearing a major's uniform, and sitting erect in a state carriage, drove to the Imperial entrance of the shrine, whether he was preceded on foot by the Imperial Princes Fushimi, Ran-in, Higashi-Fushimi, Mashimoto, Kitashirakawa, and Yi (of Korea), all wearing military uniform, together with numerous dignitaries.

The ceremony of paying homage occupied but a few minutes.

IMPRESSIVE SETTING

The Meiji Jingu (i. e., shrine) is situated at Yoyogi, a beautiful suburb of Tokio, and is massively constructed in Shinto style of pure cream-colored smooth timber from the Imperial forests. Its sole decoration is the golden Imperial chrysanthemum crest. It stands in the midst of a spacious park, wooded with trees from all parts of the Empire, and is approached from the city by a long wide avenue.

The monument is one of splendid simplicity, and altogether the most splendid fane in Japan. Its location in Tokio is the sequel to the Emperor Meiji's choice of Kyoto as the site of his mausoleum. It is therefore some compensation to the citizens of Tokio, and will perpetuate his memory in the city where he reigned so momentously.

IMPERIAL SALUTE FIRED

The ceremony of enshrining the Kanmuri (viz. the crown symbolising Meiji's spirit) was performed by Prince Fushimi, and the non-imperial Ichijo, both of whom wore flowing Shinto robes. There were present some 1,700 of the highest men in the country, and an imperial salute of 101 guns was fired.

Exhibitions of ancient horsemanship, archery, wrestling, etc., were given later in the day in the outer grounds of the shrine. There have been profuse displays of fireworks, aeroplanes have been circling over the city, and other celebrations have included municipal receptions and a great variety of public entertainments in Hibiya Park and elsewhere. The crowds in the vicinity of the shrine have been very dense all day. Tonight the streets are decorated with millions of lanterns.

Good Morning!

Look at that Roll of Building Contracts You've Got There!

Mighty fine business, isn't it? Have you got one for a hotel, a club house, a church, a theater, an auditorium, a school, or any public building of that nature?

Indeed there are few better opportunities to make the architectural profession a success than public buildings. Large crowds will admire them when they are dedicated; will assemble there, be educated, entertained, or otherwise enjoy them; will appreciate the solid construction, especially the roof which keeps the audience from exposure.

But not any kind of roof will do that, you know, only those roofings which are certified by chemists and guaranteed by the manufacturer can fulfill the duties assigned.

We belong to the latter class.

Yours very truly,

BRITAIN'S RIGHT TO ALTER TREATY IS QUESTIONED

France Asserts Agreement Bars Germany's Release From Any Terms

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 30.—Steps are being taken to clear up the differences which have arisen between Paris and London as a result of the announcement that Great Britain was waiving the right under the Treaty of Versailles to seize German property in Great Britain.

It is understood that the attitude of the French Government is that the treaty was elaborated by all the Allies, and should not be modified except by common agreement and that Great Britain has no particular power to abandon Paragraph 18, empowering the seizure of German property.

France also rejects the views, expressed by Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the House of Commons, that Paragraph 18 implied that the respective Allied Governments had the right to take whatever action they considered necessary.

The French Government points out, moreover, that it was agreed after the Frankfurt affair that no one of the Allies was to act without first consulting the others.

German Pilgrims Are Received In Audience By Pope

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, November 2.—At a reception of German pilgrims at the Vatican, the Archbishop of Cologne thanked the Pope for all the assistance he had rendered in the service of Christian charity and peace, which, he said, would ever remain in the minds of Germans. His Holiness thanked the German pilgrims for being the first pilgrims to come to Rome after the war, during which he said, his position had been extremely difficult. He added that he would continue his prayers that the peace of arms would now be followed also by a real peace of good-will amongst the nations.

Capital Increased By Deutsche Bank; Now Heads List

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, November 2.—The Deutsche Bank has increased its capital by 125,000,000 marks, thereby commanding a total of 400,000,000 marks. This outrivals the Disconto Gesellschaft, which has hitherto headed the German banks with its capital of 310,000,000 marks.

American School Favors Sen. Harding

Excitement ran high in the Shanghai American School on election day. In true American style the pupils of the School expressed their opinions as to who should be president. At assembly the pupils gathered to elect. Fiery speeches were delivered for the different candidates. Edward Lockwood spoke for Harding; Pierson Parker for Cox, and Frances White for Debs.

The ballot was taken with the result that Harding won, receiving 71 votes. Cox received 36 and Debs, seven. The Republicans are greatly elated but the Democrats still have hopes that the real election will be more favorable to them.

ABOUT YOUR DAUGHTER

No Longer A Child

If your daughter is pale, complains of weakness and depression, feels tired out after a little exertion; if she tells you of headache or backache, do not disregard these warnings. Your daughter needs help for she is most probably anaemic—that is, bloodless.

Should you notice any of these disturbing signs, lose no time but procure for her Dr. Williams' pink pills, for her unhealthy girlhood is bound to lead to unhealthy womanhood.

What Dr. Williams' pink pills can accomplish is instanced by the case of Miss Eule M. H. Mortier, a young lady school-teacher residing at "Lake Wood," Cinnamon Gardens, Colombo, Ceylon.

"About 8 years ago I was a great sufferer with asthma and was also very anaemic," she said. "I became extremely thin and weak, with a constant tired feeling. My face was pallid; my eyes were sunken in deep dark circles and had a nasty pain behind them.

"So poor was my appetite that it was only a pretence for me to sit at the table at all. I had a hacking cough and a very bad pain in the chest which allowed me to get very little sleep. The asthma caused me difficulty in breathing, particularly at night. Night sweats worried me a great deal and I got into a thoroughly low-spirited and depressed condition.

"After trying various medicines without good result I gave Dr. Williams' pink pills a trial on the advice of my father. These brought about a wonderful improvement. My appetite began to pick up and I could again enjoy my meals. My spirits rose and I regained lost flesh and colour. And as I continued with the treatment the asthma which had troubled me for three years disappeared altogether. I lost my troublesome cough, the pain left my chest, my breathing became regular, the night sweats ceased and I was able once more to enjoy a good night's sleep, awaking in the morning rested and refreshed. I owe my cure to Dr. Williams' pink pills and am always pleased to recommend them to any sufferers I find."

Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people enrich the impoverished blood, and by doing so they repair waste and prevent disease. They give to sickly dropping girls health, brightness, and charm, with colour in the cheeks, sparkling eyes, a light step and high spirits. Let your daughter begin them today; any dealer supplies these pills; or they can be obtained, one bottle for $1:50 six for $8.00, post free, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

"Health Better than it has been for Years."

Our portrait is of Mrs. WOODROW, of 56, Robinson Road, Tooting, London, England, whose husband writes:

"My wife has suffered very badly for the past four or five years with Piles, being unable to sleep at night or get any relief during the day. She tried several advertised remedies, none of which did her any good. Some three weeks ago she thought she would try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and before she had taken half a bottle she was better, and by the time she had finished the second bottle she was quite cured. She can now sleep well, eat well, and get about her work, and her general health is better than it has been for years." In a further letter some eight months later Mr. Woodrow writes: "I am pleased to say that since my wife's cure of Piles in September, 1918, there has been no sign of return of the trouble."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious. Of all Dealers. Ask for and see you get

Forward Pass Will Play Important Part In This Year's Football Contests

Conference Teams Of Middle West Bending Every Effort To Perfect The Long Toss Down The Field, Says Famous Ex-Quarterback

By Walter Eckersall

That the leading elevens in the middle west will employ an offense in which the forward pass is one of the main factors, is shown by the number of good ends as members of the various teams. Some of these men were efficient last season in picking the oval out of the air and should be better this year.

Illinois, 1919 "Big Ten" champion, has Carney back. This wing player was considered one of the best in the section at receiving passes a year ago. He is tall, rangy, and has an uncanny knack of getting out into the open to receive passes. In addition, he is fast enough to outrun the average defensive players, thereby beating them to the ball. Being a basketball player, he can catch the oval in almost any position, and it is a certainty Coach Zuppke will build a number of plays around him.

FLANKS WELL PROTECTED

At Michigan, Coach Yost has two veteran ends in Dunne and Rye, both clever in receiving long throws. At the start of the Ohio State-Michigan game last year, Dunne missed a forward pass by inches behind the Buckeye goal line. If the thrower had delayed a fraction of a second, Dunne would have caught the ball and scored a touchdown.

Rye showed good form in this department in the early games, but the accident in the Ohio game kept him out of the remaining contests. Like Zuppke, the Wolverine mentor is certain to use these players on the receiving end of passes.

WESTON AT WISCONSIN

Capt. Weston will be Wisconsin's best bet in receiving long tosses. The Badger was rated one of the best wing players in the west last year, and his ability to pick the ball out of the air made him a marked man. With such ability Coach John Richards is certain to work him into a number of formations.

Chicago will have two ends skilled in receiving passes. Hinkle and Halladay have shown their worth in this department, and Stagg is not the mentor to overlook their ability. Hinkle is a basketball player, and like Carney of Illinois can gather in the oval with one hand if thrown anywhere near him.

Iowa has a pair of great passers in the Devine brothers, and Coach Jones is certain to have men who can receive the throws. Belding was a pastmaster to the art of catching the pegs last year and alone was responsible for numerous Hawkeye gains.

GOPHERS DEVELOP PASSES

Coach Williams at Minnesota undoubtedly will develop a combination, similar to the Wyman to Vaston passes of a few years back, while Coach Stiehm of Indiana has a number of veterans who have shown their worth in passing the oval accurately.

Coach McDeavitt of Northwestern undoubtedly will uncork a long forward pass attack, as he has a passer in Blackwood who can hurl the ball half the length of the gridiron. Of course, such passes are of no account unless receivers can get down under them, but the Purple mentor undoubtedly will evolve formations of the delayed type to enable the ends and backs to get down the field.

DUNCAN'S GOLF HIGHLY PRAISED BY HIS RIVAL

Mitchell Tells Of Remarkable Score Made By Contemporary On Berwick Links

By ABE MITCHELL

The professional does not obtain much practice in match-play golf these days except against club members; and then he has usually to concede substantial odds. So he looks forward to the "News of the World" tournament with some misgiving.

This week we in the south are engaging in qualifying for this event; and those who get into the select list will meet at Mid-Surrey in the great knockout tournament.

The history of this tournament would fill a good-sized book. It began in 1903, and has taken place every year since, except during the war. I managed to win it last year from George Duncan, after a most exciting match which looked like going in the champion's favor on the thirty-fifth green.

There, however, he missed a short putt—though it was not as short as some made out—to win the hole and become dormy. Then he missed his drive to the last hole and I won, one up. Since then I have had some rare tussles with Duncan and I have been pleased when I have not been beaten.

WONDERFUL GOLF

Duncan's golf this year has been truly wonderful. Whilst in Scotland he accomplished another sensational performance. Playing at North Berwick he went round in 64. The course is not very long, it is true; but it is exceedingly difficult.

When Ben Sayers saw Duncan's card he would not believe the figures, but I know that every putt was holed out; and, to make the round more remarkable, the only long putt run down was for a two at the eighteenth.

Sayers' verdict is that you are playing good golf to return eighty and in a competition this score has rarely been beaten. The champion's card was made up of two 5's—at the eighth he took three putts—eight 4's, six 3's and two 2's.

FINE OLD TALKS

This last big meeting of the year is a rare place for the professionals to meet and discuss all their experiences of the season, and many funny golfing yarns are told in the evenings. The professional golfer has a rich sense of humor. One hears the broad Scottish tongue and the Lancashire dialect; the Irishmen, too, have their tales to tell.

The final at Mid-Surrey will be notable for the fact that, for the first time, gate money is to be charged. The proceeds are to be divided between a local hospital and the Professional Golfers' Association Benevolent Fund.

This is a good idea and one that will commend itself to the players, as they are less likely to be troubled by a crowd of irresponsible people who usually persist in ignoring the stewards.

THE "DARK HORSE"

When the tournament last took place at Mid-Surrey a new and almost unknown golfer reached the final. This was Fred Robson, who gave J. H. Taylor a tremendously hard run, too, for the first prize. After this Robson figured conspicuously in competitive golf, but an unfortunate illness stopped his advance. Now, however, he is well and strong, and fine successes may yet be achieved by this golfer.

Before this event at Mid-Surrey J. H. Taylor made a very significant statement. He declared that it was an advantage of fully two strokes a round to play on your own course, and he could be said to justify the opinion by winning.

The winners, curiously enough, have all been players who had won championships, and it is evident that experience counts for a great deal. There comes a hole sometime or other in the tournament when a risk must be taken and it is then that the old hand has the advantage.

DRAMATIC STORY OF FALL FROM GRACE OF CICOTTE, INDICTED BASEBALL PITCHER

Chicago White Sox Twirler Tells How He Was Tempted To "Throw" World Series Of 1919—Found $10,000 Under His Pillow—Feared To Tell Wife

By Dudley Burrows

"The wages of sin is death."

Never was this truism more forcibly illustrated than in the case of Edward V. Cicotte, former star pitcher of the Chicago White Sox team in the American Baseball League, now under indictment with seven other White Sox players for conspiring to "sell out" to a clique of gamblers and "throw" the White Sox-Cincinnati world's series in 1919 for a total sum of $100,000—only a portion of which they actually received.

The condition of the other seven players indicted by the Cook County Grand Jury—Joe Jackson, Fred McMullin, Oscar ("Happy") Felsch, Charles ("Swede") Risberg, Claude Williams, George ("Buck") Weaver and Arnold ("Chick") Gandil—is pitiable enough, since each one faces a term in the penitentiary; but Cicotte's fall from grace is the saddest happening in the history of baseball.

Father of a happy family, husband of a wife to whom he never dared confide his infamy, idolised of the baseball public from one end of the continent to the other, Cicotte's confession of treason to the great American game hurt more than any of the rest.

BROKE "COMMY'S" HEART

When he went to tell the story of his dastardliness to President Charles Comiskey of the Chicago club he almost broke the heart of "the noblest Roman of them all," himself a graduate from the ranks of professional baseball to a place on the topmost pinnacles of the game.

Cicotte's confession, described in the Chicago Tribune, reads as follows:

Cicotte confessed first to Comiskey. He went to the "Old Roman's" office early in the morning.

"I don't know what you'll think of me," he said, "but I got to tell you how I double-crossed you. Mr. Comiskey, I did double cross you. I'm a crook. I got $10,000 for being a crook."

"Don't tell it to me," said Comiskey. "Tell it to the grand jury."

Cicotte told it to the grand jury in tears and in shame, slowly, haltingly, hanging his head, now and then pausing to wipe his streaming eyes.

TELLS OF TEMPTERS

"Risberg and Gandil and McMullin were at me for a week before the world's series started," he said. "They wanted me to go crooked. I didn't know. I needed the money. I had the wife and the kids. The wife and kids

Alleged To Have Double Crossed Players In Baseball Scandal

Abe Attell, former lightweight champion of the world, who it is alleged to have double-crossed several players of the Chicago White Sox in the 1919 world's series. It is said that Attell represented a clique of gamblers and offered a bribe of $100,000. In a statement in New York, Attell denies he "fixed" the 1919 series. In his statement Attell said: "If they want me to talk, I'll talk, all right. I'll tell a story that will crack open the baseball world."

LONDON EXPERT CHOOSES TEAM OF FOOTBALLERS

Challenges Younger Generation To Produce Eleven To Beat His Veterans

BY J. A. McWEENEY

(London Daily Mail)

If someone came to me today and said, "I wish you to organise the most sensational football match on record, on behalf of a charity," I would not turn a hair, for I believe I could stage a game which would draw a record gate to Stamford bridge or Hampden Park.

How? I would ask the Football Association to select the strongest possible team to meet the following side of players actually participating in the game today: Haruy, Aston Villa (goal); McNair, Glasgow Celtic, or McCracken, Newcastle United, and Pennington, West Bromwich Albion (backs); McCall, Preston North End, Watson, Burnley, and Donat, Aston Villa (half-backs); Meredith, Manchester United, Buchan, Sunderland, McMenemy, Glasgow Celtic, Joe Smith and Hodkinson, Bolton Wanderers (forwards).

I recognise that I have two right half-backs in McCall at center-half. I would play McCall at center-half to suit my purpose. I know, moreover, that McMenemy is out of place at center-forward, but I would take the risk. My reserves would be: Brownlie, Third Lanark, for goal; Longworth, Liverpool, for back; Wedlock, Bristol City, and Gordon, Glasgow Rangers, for half-backs; Fleming, Swindon, and Shea, West Ham, for forwards.

GREATEST GOALKEEPER

Yet all the members of my selected side are veterans if we judge them by their length of playing days. It is generally agreed that ten years is a long career for the average footballer who takes part in strenuous League football. Consider the case of the evergreen Sam Hardy. He had made a name for himself before he was called upon to keep goal for England in all the three international games of 1907.

Today he is still England's greatest goalkeeper. In front of him as backs he has Jesse Pennington, who was capped for the first time in the same year, and McNair, who burst into fame about the same period.

Meredith, the Welsh wizard, has figured in more than 50 international games—a record which, I think, will stand for all time.

PLAYERS AND WHISKERS

My team is a team of veterans, and yet the individual members of it carried off more of the big honours of the game last season than any other eleven players you could pit against them. Of the 33 international caps awarded last season by the English Football Association, 8 members of my side received 13.

McNair was capped three times for Scotland and McMenemy once. Meredith, it goes without saying, had the triple honour for Wales. Thus my 11 players were awarded 20 international caps.

It is high time, then, that our young professional players were bestirring themselves when they see the honors going to the "old boys." The Dicky Bonds and Rutherfords and Flemings and Jeffersons must not be allowed to play football in whiskers.

Major League Baseball Men Ask Big Guarantee To Exhibit In Shanghai

Local Magnates Decline "Chance" To Guarantee $25,000 To Barnstormer's—Latter May Decide To Give Settlement A Look, En Route From Japan To Manila

Because Shanghai was unable to "see" the proposition of paying a guarantee of $25,000 to a heterogeny of American professional ball-players, for a series of games to be played in this city sometime during the present month, it is unlikely that the aforesaid heterogeny will visit the International Settlement, save to look us over from the standpoint of passing-through tourists.

Correspondence which passed between Mr. Y. Kushibiki, manager of the tour of the ball-players for the Far East, and Messrs. J. D. Sullivan and J. S. Potter, secretary-treasurer of the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club, brought to light the fact that the professionals desired so much in the way of a guarantee that Shanghai could not possibly respond.

Mr. Kushibiki in a letter dated September 2, declared that "this team consists of the very best players selected among the National and American League teams," and said that they would be available "in the middle of November," provided Shanghai would put through the substantial guarantee above mentioned.

BALL SEASON OVER

Mr. Potter, answering Mr. Kushibiki's letter, stated that the baseball season in Shanghai is finished for 1920, and that the Settlement is in no position to offer any such guarantee to the ball-players.

Answering this communication, under date of October 21, Mr. Kushibiki writes:

"I thank you most cordially for your letter of October 14, and regret to learn that you are not in a position to make any guarantee for the visit of the American professional ball-players. While I have looked forward to the pleasure of taking the American players to your city, during their trip through the Orient, I find it impossible to take them to Shanghai without proper guarantee, at least for transportation and hotel expenses.

MAY COME ANYHOW

"Therefore, at present, it is difficult to arrange any exhibition game or games at Shanghai under the terms proposed by you; but according to our itinerary or to the wishes of the players we may decide to play at Shanghai. In that case I sincerely solicit your aid and will make further arrangements with you."

It is doubtful if an arrangement could be made to get the Race Course diamond in shape for the big-league players. On the other hand, should the baseball men decide to pay us a visit Shanghai will undoubtedly make the arrange-

PEKING WILL CONSIDER ALL SIDES ON PEACE

The Government has telegraphed to Tsao Chun-hsuan, Wen Tsung-yao and Chen Chin-tao, who were responsible of the dissolution of the Military Government in Canton, to go up to Peking to consult the government on the reorganization plan.

None of the southern men, however, have signified their willingness to go.

The Government has also telegraphed to the Constitutionalist leaders in Shanghai, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Dr. Wu Ting-fang and Mr. Tang Shao-yi, to state that their views will be considered in the final conclusion of peace and that Peking will not have a separate peace with the Kwangsi heads.

Wang Ko-ming and Sze Yu, two of the Northern associate delegates, are coming to Shanghai to conclude the affairs of the Shanghai peace conference.

Cotton Industry In Russia Faces Ruin, Belief Of Expert

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 28 (by mail).—Russia's great pre-war cotton industry has suffered to such an extent during the revolution that it is doubtful whether many of the mills will ever be able to operate again, says Sir Charles Macmara, an English authority in the world's cotton trade, in an interview in the Yorkshire Post.

Based upon information obtained from an Englishman who recently returned from Russia, where for 14 years he was the manager of a large cotton factory near Moscow, Sir Charles estimates that of the 9,000,000 spindles running in Russia before the revolution, not more than 200,000 or 300,000 are now operating.

Sir Charles added that the mills in Germany and Austria were turning out only from 25 to 30 percent of the normal production, and English workers faced the almost impossible task of making up for the four and a-half years' stoppage of textile manufacture due to the war.

Britain Prepares For Armistice Day

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 1.—The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have issued a statement, strongly supporting the proposal that the whole community shall suspend their ordinary occupations during the "two minutes' silence" on Armistice Day and also appointing November 14 as a day for special prayer, notably for the League of Nations' Assembly, which is meeting at Geneva on November 15.

Cuban Sugar Crop To Be Financed By Banks In U.S.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 30.—The recent reports of American financial assistance to Cuba have now crystallised into the statement that a group of banks, headed by Messrs. Morgan, have arranged for a loan of from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 for the Cuban Government with the sole purpose of financing the sugar crop. The approval of the State Department is necessary before the loan can be effected.

French President Honors Valor Of World War Veterans

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, November 2.—The President of the Republic, accompanied by Madame Millerand, visited on Monday the cemeteries of Bagneux, Ivry and Pantin, where soldiers' graves are especially numerous. In the course of his visit to the Pantin cemetery the President tendered a salute to the graves of the English soldiers there. Several hours later the British Ambassador came to lay palms at the foot of the cenotaph consecrated to the memory of the French dead. Similar ceremonies took place in the various cemeteries of Paris and its suburbs.

afford to ignore for they have resigned their official posts but Peking is willing to listen if they offer valuable advice.

FOUR PLANS MADE

"With regard to unification the Government has adopted four plans, namely, (1) to declare its diplomatic policy and to effect the cancellation of the Sino-Japanese Military Pact: (2) in compliance with the wishes of the people to re-establish the system of local Government: (3) to carry out strictly the disbandment of the soldiery and (4) to decide on a program of national reform after consultation with the South-Western provinces. With regard to the Canton Government it is uncertain who is in control but, whether General Chen, Admiral Tang or anyone else be Tuchun he will expect formal appointment from Peking. The attitude of the Government, however, is not to interfere with Canton until the Cantonese have agreed among themselves. Szechuen has declared its independence of Yunnan and Generals Hsiung Keh-wu and Lu Tseng-hou control the province.

"They have declared their loyalty to the Government while Kweichow has given assurance of its readiness to come to an agreement with the Central Government provided affairs in Hunan are satisfactorily settled.

NOT BELLIGERENT

"General Tan Yen-kai is opposing the Kwangsi (? Kweichow) troops and efforts are being made to persuade him to come over but it does not greatly matter whether these efforts fail as the military control in Hunan is in the hands of General Chow Heng-ti with whom the Government is in perfect agreement. The settlement of Hunan is therefore assured.

"Finally the Government does not believe there is any further reason for the existence of the Military Government in the South and the South has lost its status as a belligerent."

Dramatic Story Of Fall Of Cicotte

don't know this. I don't know what they'll think.

"I bought a farm. There was a $4,000 mortgage on it. There isn't any mortgage on it now. I paid it off with the crooked money.

"The eight of us—the eight under indictment—got together in my room three or four days before the games started. Gandil was master of ceremonies. We talked about throwing the series—decided we could get away with it. We agreed to do it.

THOUGHT OF FAMILY

"I was thinking of the wife and kids, and how I needed the money. I told them I had to have the cash in advance. I didn't want any checks. I didn't want any promises. I wanted the money in bills. I wanted it before I pitched a ball.

"We all talked quite a while about it, I and the seven others. Yes, all of us decided to do our best to throw the games to Cincinnati.

"Then Gandil and McMullin took us all, one by one, away from the others and we talked turkey. They asked me my price. I told them $10,000. And I told them that $10,000 was to paid in advance.

"CASH IN ADVANCE!"

"'Cash in advance,' I said. 'Cash in advance, and nothing else.'

"It was Gandil I was talking to. He wanted to give me some money at the time, the rest after the games were played and lost. But it didn't go with me.

"'I said cash,' I reminded him. 'Cash, in advance, and not C. O. D. If you can't trust me, I can't trust you. Pay or I play ball.'

"Well, the argument went on for days—the arguments for 'some now and some later.' But I stood pat. I wanted that $10,000, and I got it.

"How I wish that I didn't!

"The day before I went to Cincinnati I put it up to them squarely for the last time that there would be nothing doing unless I had the money.

MONEY UNDER PILLOW

"That night I found the money under my pillow. There was $10,000. I counted it. I don't know who put it there. But I was there. It was my price. I had sold out 'Commy;' I had sold out the other boys. Sold them for $10,000 to pay off a mortgage on a farm, and for the wife and kids.

"Ten thousand dollars. What I had asked—what I had demanded. Ten thousand dollars, cash in advance, there in my fingers. I had been paid, and I went on. I threw the game.

"If I had realised what that meant to me! The taking of that dirty, crooked money—the hours of mental torture, the days and nights of living with an unclean mind; the weeks and months of going along with six of the seven other crooked players, and holding a guilty secret; and of going along with the boys who had stayed straight and clean—honest boys who had nothing to trouble them—say, it was hell!

"I got the $10,000 cash in advance. That's all.

"The first ball I pitched," Cicotte said, concerning the first game, "I wondered what the wife and kiddies would say if they ever found out I was a crook, yet—I had the $10,000 and I figured I could doublecross the gamblers and take a chance.

"If they didn't knock me off, the wife and kiddies were fixed. I pitched, after that first ball, the best ball I knew how, I lost. But I lost because I was hit, not because I was throwing the game."

MILITARISTS ARE NOT WILLING TO MARCH TO URGA

No reinforcement is actually going to the aid of Urga despite the decision of the government to send Chen Yi to the scene of trouble and to ask Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun to despatch expeditions, according to the Chinese press.

Chen is waiting in Kalgan and has telegraphed to Peking for $850,000 for military expenses, Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun demand $1,200,000 for their share, Chang also refuses to put the aeroplanes, he had seized, into service on the ground that Mukden is further from Urga than Peking.

The Ministry of Finance is helpless in meeting the demands of the three generals who are expected to send reinforcements to Urga.

What is Castoria?

CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Comfort—The Mother's Friend.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper of genuine Castoria

"Your Castoria is certainly the greatest remedy for children I know of. I know no other proprietary preparation which is its equal." B. S. SCHWARTZ, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

"I have used your Castoria as a purgative in the cases of children for years past with most happy effect, and fully endorse it as a safe remedy." H. D. BENNER, M.D., Philadelphia, Pa.

Heavy Imports Of Wheat From Canada Pour Into States

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 1.—The import of Canadian wheat for the first fifteen days of October was greater than that for any corresponding period during the past seven years.

Chinese Street Bodies To Secede From Union

Opposition To Chen Tsze-ming Growing Stronger Among Trade Societies

Determined efforts are being made by various sections of the Chinese Street Unions to shake off the leadership of Chen Tsze-ming, at present president of the association, and the latest move in the matter is toward the formation of an entirely new organisation.

Forty different units are holding meetings to take the matter up. They allege that Chen Tsze-ming drew up the regulations concerning the election of officers for the original association in such a way that it would be impossible to oust the president and declare that their only remedy is to secede from the old body and start a new one.

MILL WOMEN STRIKE

Eighty Chinese women employes of the Angle-Chinese Cotton Mill, 1 Lay Road, went on strike Tuesday night following the announcement that the 2 1/2 cent per day rice allowance which they have been receiving was to be stopped and a general raise of 2 cents a day in wages substituted. The strikers eventually returned to work after an understanding had been reached that the matter should again come up for consideration by the mill management.

Some 50 women employed at the Huhg Tsang Weaving Mill, 875 Markham Road, also went on strike Tuesday, the reason given being that they were harshly treated by the sub-manager in charge of their section. The mill management declined to discharge the official but it was hoped that an arrangement might be arrived at to bring the employes back to work.

Leaders Of British Trade In Far East Open Second Conference In Shanghai

tion which vitally interests Hongkong, but which none-the-less involves the whole of our interests in China.

I refer to the establishment of a powerful "wireless station," which can connect with India on the one hand and Honolulu on the other—which during peace times shall be available for commercial purposes.

"I am aware that the "special commission" on this subject has recently advocated a station connecting with Singapore, but we feel that with the competition that must be faced in these days from nations already possessing infinitely more powerful stations, it is vital to imperial and national; as well as trade interests, that a really powerful station should be erected at the earliest possible moment at Hongkong and that to erect a less powerful station would be wanton waste of public money, as well as a betrayal of imperial interests.

"Anything you can do, sir, to assist us in this matter, I can assure you will receive the unanimous backing of every Chamber of Commerce represented here. In the meantime, we hope the present wireless station on "Stonecutters Island" will at once be made available for commercial use and so assist in relieving the present serious cable delays which make trading so difficult and often impossible.

Mr. Clive, in reply after thanking, his hearers for the welcome accorded him, said in part: "I have served in several countries, but I think I may safely say that in no one of them have I found a British community so numerous and so important as the present British community in China of which you gentlemen gathered here today from all corners of this vast country are among the leading representatives.

"I have read your draft agenda for the present conference, and I see there are some subjects which were before you last year. On some I fear there is not much progress to record. Currency reform and the removal of inland taxation are two of the fundamental questions which vitally affect every mercantile interest in this country, whether foreign or Chinese. As regards the latter I cannot help feeling that we must find some practical way of showing the Chinese that abolition of inland taxation is not as difficult as it seems on the surface and that it would pay all concerned.

CURRENCY REFORM

"The same applies to currency reform. The currency of the country which I am told was showing signs of progress last year, has shifted back under the disorder of this summer, but the very fact that it has done so has accentuated the strength of public opinion and I can only hope that the coming year will see some definite step taken towards the establishment of a central mint in Shanghai, the ground for which I was recently told by the Minister of Finance has already been acquired. A unified currency for the whole country would be an unmixed blessing for everybody.

"I see you are to discuss the question of the Russian and Ex-German concessions at Hankow and Tientsin. I had not intended to say anything on this subject as coming under the category of political issues about which by a long-standing and very sound Foreign Office ruling.

"His Majesty's representatives are debarred from airing their views in public, but the day before I left for Shanghai, at an interview with the Minister of Foreign Affairs, His Excellency invited me to tell the Conference that the Chinese Government had no wish or intention to cause the slightest injury to British interests by their action under the presidential mandate in substituting Chinese for Russian authority in the Russian concession, and if ever I had any reason to complain that British interests were being adversely affected, he would always be ready to listen sympathetically with a view to meeting the difficulty.

OPIUM AND CONSORTIUM

"I will only refer to two other subjects which are upon your agenda namely, opium and the new consortium.

"In regard to the former, as you all know, His Majesty's Government made sacrifices of revenue entailing vast administrative changes which are evidences of our good faith to China and to the world and of our earnest desire to abolish all traffic in the drug. It must not be forgotten that China also made great sacrifice when she destroyed existing stocks of opium in the country. Unfortunately political unrest has caused a recrudescence of the cultivation and sale of opium in this country but I believe that public opinion both in China and in the British Empire is pledged to the ultimate elimination of the opium evil. I am glad, therefore, to see that you are considering this question and will be able to suggest some practical measures to meet the present difficulties.

"The New Consortium has now been formed and by it the powers concerned have definitely set their face against indiscriminate loans to China for administrative or non-productive purposes.

"The Consortium is designed to build up the strength of the country, to assist in the re-establishment of internal peace and to forward the productive development of this great country in the interests of the Chinese people. Let us hope that this will be realised by the better-informed and more thoughtful members of the Chinese communities throughout the country and that public opinion will gradually recognise the value of the Consortium and give solid support to its aims."

Mr. Clive then read a telegram from Sir John Jordan, in which he said: "The value of your annual Conferences is fully recognised here: and your deliberations will be watched with the keenest interest."

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS

Mr. A. W. Burkill, chairman of the conference, in his address pleaded for continued co-operation of British interests in China and Hongkong. In reviewing the past year he said:

"The resolution passed last year on currency reform has borne good fruit. The Chinese have moved in the matter of establishing a mint in Shanghai; they are in negotiation for, if not already bought, a site and for materials, and they are believed to be much more inclined to consider favorably the question of foreign supervision than they were.

"As the result of another resolution passed last year, the Chinese have also made a move in the matter of Likin. On a question so intricate as this one is, and so much bound up with finance, we cannot expect rapid progress. As long as we have evidence that there has been some progress and that that progress is due to the Association's efforts, we can be content. Some months ago the Chinese held meetings in various parts of the country and of these Sir John Jordan reported to the Foreign Office on February 27, this year—and I now quote from his despatch—that they were the first serious attempts on the part of the Chinese Government to meet the views both of foreign importers and the Chinese Provinces in regard to unified taxation.

TRADE MARK QUESTION

"Then there is the question of Trade Marks. As you all know the resolution passed last year was backed up by a draft Trade Marks Law, drawn up by the Shanghai Chamber and the China Association. It was sent to the Foreign Office and, we understand, has resulted in the Board of Trade drawing up proposals of its own, which they are sending out to us for our comment.

"We are equally entitled to include among the tangible results of our work the Dangerous Drugs Act whereby, commencing from 1st of September this year, the import into or export from England of opium, medicinal opium, morphia, heroin and cocaine will be prohibited except under license."

Mr. Burkill spoke briefly on the G. L. Shaw case and increase in salaries for British consular employes. He expressed the thanks of the conference to Sir John Jordan for his message and announced that a cable would be sent Sir John expressing the gratitude of the conference for the interest in its activities.

Mr. Burkill then moved the conference to executive session his resolution asking Mr. Archibald Rose, Commercial Secretary at the British Legation, to preside.

Mr. Rose said in part:

"I have recently returned from a tour of the provinces lasting over two months, and have met most of the Chinese who are playing leading parts in the government, industry and finance of the country. I cannot express too strongly my sense of the change which is coming over China of the developments which I notice since last I made any prolonged tour in the interior. In the province of Shansi I found a regular army of soldiers constructing a road which will run from one end of the province to the other. All along the railway lines I found chimneys going up and industries established under a purely Chinese administration. At many of the interior towns I found roads being built, municipal works established, an unexpected mobility of capital and men doing their business on entirely new lines. There can be no doubt that a real development has set in in China and among the Chinese.

"I could not but be impressed with the thought of a changing China. As in politics and diplomacy, so in industry and commerce one was conscious of the stirrings of that spirit of revolt against foreign ascendancy which the impact of Western civilisation provokes sooner or later among the people of the East. One realised that the Chinese have brains and practical ability and adaptability in a high degree, and that they are turning their attention to Western methods in a way which we hardly realise when we are living in the midst of the foreign communities in China.

"Much of their work is naturally in an experimental stage handicapped by lack of technical knowledge and a little crude, but I am convinced that before many years have passed we shall see great Chinese merchant houses and great Chinese industries springing up all over the country, and that they will play no unimportant part in the world's trade.

NO ANTI-FOREIGN FEELING

"I do not believe that these developments are creating any anti-foreign feeling. Rather the reverse. With a better understanding of foreign trade and of the mutual interests involved in it, the Chinese seem to me to be more ready than ever to work with us, to learn such things as we may have to teach them, and to give us the benefit of their local knowledge, believing that trade is most successful and most profitable when both parties to the bargain are content. The spirit of the moment in fact is one of co-operation: the Chinese are now willing to co-operate with us: to work with us rather than for us, and I think that we should go halfway to meet them.

"A good many co-operative schemes, banks, industries, mining enterprises and merchant houses have been established by Chinese and non-British foreigners in recent years. The British appear on the face of it to have lagged somewhat behind in the way of co-operation. But that is not really the case. Our movements towards the more dramatic aspect of co-operation have been more conservative than those of some other nations: we have been slower to move and more inclined to build gradually and on existing foundations.

BRITISH METHODS

"The cautious, practical methods of the British have been slower in bearing fruit. But many solid co-operative enterprises are now growing up by natural and evolutionary processes, and a number of them have already shown substantial evidences of success. I would ask everyone of you, Gentlemen, to bear this in mind: to try and see its application to the enterprises for which you are responsible, and to hold your minds ready to meet the Chinese in a spirit of confidence. Past experience has shown that, when such methods are applied with care and caution, they are the road to success in this country.

WIRELESS AND AVIATION

"I should like to say a word too about aviation and wireless, two commercial enterprises which have recently been started in China and which have met with a good deal of criticism and misunderstanding. It is argued—not without reason—that such luxuries are premature in a country where financial stringency and undeveloped transport appear to indicate the wisdom of a more conservative policy on the part of the Chinese. But we must remember that the Chinese will have such luxuries; that they will obtain them somewhere and on some terms; that there is a real possibility of putting them to practical use, and that it is not practicable even if it were desirable to dictate to China what is good for her. Nations learn such lessons best for themselves.

British manufacturers and merchants have sold to the Chinese a good deal of material both for wireless and for aviation. It seems to me that our part is to work with patience and perseverance to see that goods bought in England are used productively, effectively and in the interests of the country that has bought them.

MAKE WORLD'S RECORD

"A great wireless station has just been completed at Urga in Northern Mongolia. The expert who superintended the erection assures me that his Chinese mechanics completed their task with wonderful efficiency and created a world's record in point of time. He is now on his way to Central Asia to complete a chain of stations from one end of this great country to the other. If only those stations are properly used they may prove a most useful factor, both politically and economically, in linking up the outlying regions of China.

"As to aviation, His Majesty's Government has placed at the disposal of the Chinese Government one of our most distinguished aeronautical experts, and China has undertaken that the aeroplanes now being delivered will be used for commercial purposes only.

AIR MAIL SERVICE

"I understand that a mail service between Peking and Shanghai is being planned by the Chinese Government aeronautical department, that practical steps have already been taken to establish the organisation and that they have hopes of starting next spring. It is realised that this line will be an essentially experimental one but, should the experiment succeed, there is little doubt that links will be established between Hankow and Szechwan and other outlying parts of China, which will prove of real economic value to the country."

AFTERNOON SESSION

At the afternoon session resolutions on a number of important subjects were adopted, including the question of affiliation with the Association of Chambers of Commerce in Great Britain, an endorsement of the work of the Commission for the improvement of the river system in Chihli, a recommendation in connection with conservancy work on the Yangtsze, on the question of co-operation to promote general trade of the Empire and a recommendation in connection with the project to open a mint in Shanghai.

The resolutions adopted were as follows:

Affiliation with the Association of British Chambers of Commerce in Great Britain:

"That this Conference recommends that the Associated British Chambers in China and Hongkong be affiliated with the Association of British Chambers of Commerce in Great Britain."

Chihli River Commission:

"That this Conference resolves to communicate to H. M. Minister in Peking the satisfaction with which it views the work already accomplished by the Commission for the improvement of the river system of Chihli, urges the importance of the continuance of the Commission and to this end requests H. M. Minister to endeavor to arrange that the necessary steady financial support be accorded, either by ear-marking a portion of the Customs or Salt Surplus revenues or by such other means as may be conveniently devised."

Yangtsze Conservancy:

"That as a preliminary to the appointment by the Chinese Government of a Conservancy Board to improve the navigation of the Yangtsze, as recommended in the resolution passed at last year's Conference, this Conference would strongly urge the nomination of a technical commission to make a preliminary study of the whole question with a view to formulating general proposals as to the lines on which this work should be taken in hand."

Manufacturers and Merchants.

"That this Association, being in the main composed of merchants, many of whom, however, are sole agents for some of the biggest manufacturers in Great Britain, desires to place on record its anxiety to co-operate in the fullest practicable way with manufacturers in the advancement of the Empire's commercial and manufacturing interests."

Currency reform.

"That this Conference welcomes the indications which the Chinese Government has given of its intention to open a Mint in Shanghai but would emphasise the absolute necessity of the employment of foreign experts with a view to ensuring the production and maintenance of a standard currency capable of replacing sycee."

Harding Wins

As a result of Tuesday's balloting in the United States we rise to congratulate Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, and the Republican Party, on his election to be the next President of the United States. He will take office on March 4, next, and we hope that he will have a majority in both the Senate and House, so that the nation can get on with its work, both foreign and domestic. Since 1918 little progress has been made because of the House and Senate being Republican while the President and Cabinet were Democratic.

Results of the election will be interpreted variously, of course, but the outstanding result to our mind, is the verdict passed on the League of Nations. The country has decided that it does not want the League as at present constituted. It is the hope of the President-elect and his party that by negotiating with Europe a better league, or rather "an association" of nations that will be fairer to the United States, can be obtained. If this is found to be impossible, America will continue to remain aloof until eventualities dictate a new course.

On this point Senator Harding recently stated his position as follows:

Governor Cox has promised that, if elected President, he will carry on President Wilson's policies, especially those that concern the proposed League of Nations, and he has said that he believes that "this nation's prosperity hinges on the League's result."

On this point the issue between us is definitely joined. I agree with him that our prosperity hinges on the League's result, but in a different way. I believe that Europe depends on America, not America on Europe, and that the League of Nations which the President negotiated is a scheme to get everything possible out of America without giving anything in return but the sophistry of a falsely called "moral obligation."

To my mind the only thing certain in the proposed Wilson League of Nations is the inevitable dependence of this country on the decisions of European governments. Governor Cox courts this: I abhor it.

Another fundamental issue between Governor Cox and myself is defined in his recent statement that in case I am elected the Senate will have some say in determining the policies of the Government. In this Governor Cox has correctly interpreted my intention, which, I take it from his public utterances, is different from his own.

On this point it is well to be explicit. Every President must have some advisers. Who can be better, especially as concerns affairs of foreign policy, than the ninety-six leading men of the Republic? Not the party bosses, not the personal favorites of the White House incumbent, but the ninety-six conspicuous citizens chosen by their forty-eight respective States in soleman election for that particular high place and that especially privileged authority, and as duly provided for by the Constitution.

I am glad Governor Cox has raised this point and made it prominent. It completely defines the issue between us, for, as it goes beneath the structure of the formation of governmental policy, it practically includes the issue of such a League of Nations as I think would involve our surrender of nationality.

If elected President, Governor Cox promises not to heed the voice of the Senate. What voice then will he heed That of the party bosses who nominated him? That of a group of favorites with whom he may surround himself, dependent on him for place? Or will he, peradventure, be entirely self-sufficient and be able to proceed alone, unmindful of precept or example, undeterred by any influence counter to his own?

For myself I am frank and positive in saying I would rather have the counsel of the Senate than of all the political bosses of any party in America.

I feel that in this campaign especially strong emphasis must be made on what is at this time our most imperative requirement, viz., that we seek again a government of laws and not of men, that instead of searching for a superman to guide us in the Presidency we choose one near the normal.

As to the causes underlying the general decision in favor of the Republicans, the principle one undoubtedly was dissatisfaction with the Democratic Administration. The President it was thought had attempted to usurp too much power, to be too much the dictator. And it was thought that he made a mistake in going to the Peace Conference, and that after he got there he committed other mistakes—in other words that he permitted himself to be made the victim of the sophistries of European diplomacy.

His refusal to accord a hearing to the delegation which the 15,000,000 Americans of Irish descent sent to Paris counted heavily against the Democrats, not only with the Irish-Americans but with the German-Americans and countless others whose sympathies are for Ireland.

Aside from these causes, the conduct of affairs in Europe since the signing of the Armistice, and especially since the signing of the Peace Treaty has not been such as to lead the people of America to wish to dip back into that maelstrom of hatred and intrigue, however much they may desire to help Europe out of her present difficulties.

As to the President-elect, his outstanding characteristics probably are those of courtesy, conciliation and kindness of heart. His ability along the line of concession and conciliation marks him out as being diametrically the opposite of President Wilson both in character and method, and was never more clearly shown than in the present campaign when he was able to unite the wildly discordant elements of his own party and win a sweeping victory for it and for himself. He is a conservative party man, willing at all times to yield his own convictions in some degree for party harmony and as President he may be expected to conduct a strictly party government. Governor James M. Cox, his opponent, thus described him in a recent speech: "I believe that he is conscientious and that he arrives at his conclusions honestly. He is standing for principles in which he believes and is using all his force to make them effective."

Senator Harding's impression of the presidency itself was expressed in an interview last month when he said: "If there is a single meaning in the Presidency it is this: That a spiritual majesty will clothe its occupant and grace him with attributes that inhere not in the man, but in the office, but which, being in the office, must be so inevitably expressed through the man that the world may feel and know that he is conscious of the temporary nature of his tenancy, and is, therefore, doubly jealous to guard and preserve the august power which only symbolizes the collective weal of all the people."

To Governor Cox we extend our sympathy in his defeat. He made a brilliant, fighting campaign, especially in behalf of the League of Nations. The odds against him were too great to be overcome. The country evidently had made up its mind sometime ago that it wanted none of the League in its present shape, and although Governor Cox favored mild reservations, it is now evident that this was not deemed enough and that the country wants the strongest sort of safeguards before it enters an association of the world powers. Whether it has made the right decision, both from the standpoint of the United States and the world, remains, of course, on the knees of the gods.

RACING COLORS

If the fashion adopted by King George of wearing a tie composed of his racing colors is generally followed, some startling results are likely to be seen on our Race Course next week. Followers of the Elrettus Stable used to be seen with myriad colored ties containing the colors of that stable. Mr. "Solly" Joel, the well known English turf man, has green and pink for his colors. What a combination in the brilliant sunshine. We have a few vivid tints to choose from.

An amusing story of the first Ascot race meeting after the war is told by Viscount Churchill. When the King proceeded up the course in state, an eminent American general on one of the stands said:

"Say, who are they in the last carriage," pointing to four noble lords, members of the King's party, who were grey top hats with black bands. "Are they the King's bookmakers?"

THE RETORT CIRCUMSPECT

Jefferson, the great American actor, sent his son to Europe to see something of the world. The son, Willie, was out for a good time, and had not been in Europe long before he cabled his dad "Please send two hundred pounds at once. Willie." Jefferson cabled back "What for?" The son without a moment's thought replied "For Willie."

PULLING THE KING'S LEG!

King's are ill to joke wi'," Carlyle once observed.

Numerous examples might be quoted, however, of amusing retorts and sallies at the expense of monarchs.

Among the neatest, perhaps, was that made to the Prince of Wales, afterwards King William IV., by the Secretary of the Admiralty.

The Prince had been bantering the Secretary for some time. "When I am King," said he, "you shall not be Secretary of the Admiralty. What do you say to that."

"God save the King!" rejoined the witty Secretary.

It is related that when Charles II. was inspecting a warship at Chatham, he asked Killigrew, "Don't you think I should have made a good shipwright?"

"I have always thought that your Majesty would do better at any trade than your own," replied Killigrew.

Almost as disconcerting was an answer given to Frederick the Great, who, wishing to humiliate his physician, asked: "How many men have you sent into the other world."

"Not nearly so many as your Majesty," was the retort, "but with infinitely less glory."

PATRIA POTESTAS

Phya Abbai Bolabhakdi, a Lieut-Colonel on pension, has inserted a notification in the Nangsue Phim Thai, which raises a nice question in regard to the legal powers of a father over his child in Siam. This particular child Phra Narong Ruang Dej is also a Lieut-Colonel, in actual service in the Army. The notification sets forth that the son's wife had in a public street abused her father-in-law and all his forebears. This he felt was abuse of the founder of the family, Krom Luang Seni Boriraks, from whom the family derived their surname of Senivongs na Krungdeb. The Borispah Court found the lady to be in the wrong. At the hearing of the case the son gave evidence on behalf of his wife, and denied that she abused his father.

Because, then, the son had failed to honour the family name, because he had allowed it to be insulted, because he sided with his wife and honoured her more than his father, the father hereby breaks the relationship of father and son hitherto existing between them and formally forbids Phra Narong Ruang Dej to use the surname of Senivongs na Krungdeb.

Next President, Son Of Doctor, Edits A Paper

Warren G. Harding's friends describe him as a "newspaper man who can talk as well as write." That double barreled capacity for expression of ideas is a distinction, they say. It accounts, say his friends, to a large extent for his strength. Those who read what he writes are convinced, and when they hear him talk they are with the man.

More than that, according to those who know him, he is a man of broad character, large ideas, and strong mental grasp. He is also a successful business man. His political opponents say that he is above petty personalities or the smallnesses to which many great men are prone.

WILL ACCEPT ADVICE

Arthur M. Evans, writing in The Chicago Tribune of April 10, 1920, typified Harding in these words:

"Through Harding the conservatives see a return to the good old days when a senator or a political light could walk over to the White House, hang his hat on a peg, and go in to see the president, and not only do that but hand him a package of counsel and advice with at least a sporting chance that it would not go into one ear and out the other—a 'return to constitutional government,' they call it.

"Harding is a country editor, one of the old school breed, nourished on printer's ink, who worked his way up from 'devil' to typeslinger and pressman, meanwhile learning how to sling a wicked pen. He revels in the written and spoken word. He is probably the most popular man among the senators themselves, and he appeals particularly to the "right wing," which embraces everything from the troglodytes and old guard to the hemi-semi-demi-progressives, this by virtue of his undeviating conservatism.

A PLAIN AMERICAN

"In these days of exaggerations, when men are tagged 'Reds' or 'reactionaries' by the other side, Harding is able to travel such a narrow course that he is not even listed as a 'liberal' or a 'hardshell,' secondary terms of reproach. He is a plain, unassuming, unpretentious American who believes in sticking to the middle of the road. Of course, this may mean the rut, but, on the other hand, it also obviates the need of skid chains.

"So there you are. Harding never flies off at a tangent. He seems to be immune to centrifugal and centripetal forces alike; to the regulars he stands as a symbol of the center of gravity itself."

IMPRESSIVE PERSONALITY

The next president of the United States tops more than six feet, a man towering among men, with a personality which is impressive. Smooth shaven, gray hair, a face lined with character, his admirers see in his face the reincarnation of McKinley with the added strength of Foraker and Hanna.

Affable, good natured, ever ready to listen to a just cause, he is the friend as well as the political leader of those included within his circle of power. He claims to be Ohio and from Ohio, for he was born there and has lived there his two score and fifteen years.

Admiration and friendship for former Senator Foraker, Harding says, was what induced him to enter politics. Twenty-two years ago, when he started in the game, he little anticipated that he would ever be a presidential possibility. That campaign was in 1898, and was for state senator. He was elected, and his political future was cast. Next he became lieutenant governor. The state went Democratic, and Gov. Harmon defeated him for the highest office in the state.

WINS THE SENATORSHIP

With this defeat still fresh in his mind he was pitted by his supporters in a three cornered fight for the senatorial nomination. Before he went into the campaign he went to Cincinnati to see the old Ohio leader-Senator Foraker, who told him to make the race. It has not interfered with their friendship.

Harding was elected to the senate by a majority of more than 100,000, running 73,000 ahead of the next highest on the ticket. In his case there was a complete cementing of the opposing factions.

His selection as chairman of the national Republican convention in 1916 soon after he entered the senate, and without factional strife, bore evidence of his recognition among leaders of the party throughout the nation.

STUDIED EUROPE

During the last score of years Harding has been three times abroad, visiting most of the European countries to study at close range their systems of government and economic problems, such as the tariff, the standard of wages paid to labor in the different countries, and the varied conditions surrounding their mode of life.

The president elect is said to have one of the finest collections of marbles in the world. It is not rare statuettes or fine grained mosaics such as archaeologists rave about, but just ordinary "shooting marbles"—carnelians, agates, "mibs," and such—with which the small boy loads down his pockets in springtime and grimes up his fingers trying to win more. The collection of marbles is supposed to be strictly sub rosa. The senator enjoys them.

ONCE PLAYED IN BAND

He is a great story teller. He is partial to shirts in robin's egg blues and silver and old gold symphonies. He plays the cornet and once was a shining light in a village band. His home in Marion, O., is a plain American home of the well-to-do, yet with a difference. The house overflows with books. An omnivorous reader, poetry and history are his favorite pursuits. He is fond of golf and motoring.

He is 55 years old, and he was born on the Ohio farm—his grandfather's—the oldest of eight children. His father, a doctor, who served in the civil war, is still in active practice, at the age of 76. His father, Dr. George T. Harding, is of old colonial stock, originally from Scotland. His mother, Phoebe Dickerson, was descended from an old Dutch family, the Van Kirks.

When he got through college at the age of 19 his family moved to Marion, O., and there the Hardings have since lived. As a youth he got hold of the Marion Star, which is still his leading enterprise, although he is a director in several industrial concerns and a lawyer as well.

PROFIT SHARING

Eleven years ago he inaugurated a profit sharing plan on his paper whereby employes might become shareholders, the dividends paying for their stock.

His greatest admirer is Mrs. Harding. They are full partners, not only in home life, but in business as well. The next first lady of the land wife was Forence Kling, daughter of Amos Kling, a business man of Marion. They were married in 1891.

His personal beliefs as to a G. O. P. program, as expressed on March 31:

"The United States should have an ample navy; should lead the world in aviation; should have an ample army; should have military training;

"Should prepare for defense without assuming the burdens of the military enslavement of continental Europe or the menace of Prussian militarism;

"Should get away from abnormal conditions of war and seek the stable ways of peace;

"Should restore our boasted freedom under the constitution and every extraordinary war statute should be repealed;

"Should declare opposition to government ownership and nationalisation of industry."

And last—but not least—the senator is on record advising legislation providing a farm for every American soldier who fought in the great war.

Coolidge Famed As 'Iron Man' Of Police Strike

Calvin Coolidge, forty-eighth governor of Massachusetts, leaped into national esteem on Sept. 9 a year ago when he crushed the strike of Boston's police force. With the city turned over to a reign of criminals, Gov. Coolidge called out the state troops on the jump and summarily discharged more than 1,200 policemen who had quit their posts.

This was made the paramount issue of the campaign for governor last November by his opponent, Richard H. Long, who promised to reinstate every one of the 1,200 discharged policemen. The answer of the people was that Coolidge carried Massachusetts—a state where normally a 20,000 plurality is large—by a plurality of 125,000. It was this, the largest vote ever accorded a governor of Massachusetts, that carried Coolidge into the national campaign.

A STAR SPANGLED NOMINEE

Calvin Coolidge is a red, white, and blue American by birth. He was born on the Fourth of July in Plymouth, Vt. He was 48 years old last Independence day. His father, Col. John C. Coolidge of Vermont, is still living.

Coolidge attended Amherst college and later took up the practice of law in Northampton, Mass. It was there his political career began. His rise was steady. He served first in the Northampton city council. Subsequently he was elected mayor, city solicitor, clerk of the Hampshire county court, state representative, state senator, president of the state senate, lieutenant governor, and governor.

He is noted for the brevity of his speeches and his dislike for the old familiar "political handshake." He once made an eight minute talk against a bill in the Massachusetts senate and it was defeated. It is said that once when he was accused by a friend of being a Socialist, he became garrulous and replied: "Oh, no!"

BOOMED LIBERAL LAWS

Among the liberal measures he worked for while in the legislature were appropriation for pure food bill; new housing laws for Boston; free employment bureau; old age pension commission; bill against overtime for women and children; pensions for widows of policemen and firemen; eight hour day for state and city employes; workmen's compensation act; pensions for school teachers; better medical inspection for schools; limit to assumption of risk by rail employes; half fare for school children, and modification of injunction processes.

The father, of the next vice-president, Col. Coolidge, was a member of the Vermont senate for two years, during which his son was in the Massachusetts senate.

CONGRATULATED BY WILSON

At the time the governor swept the state by his re-election President Wilson sent him the following message from the sick bed:

"I congratulate you upon your election as a victory for law and order. When that is the issue all Americans stand together."

"I deeply appreciate your telegram of congratulation," Gov. Coolidge wired in reply. "I trust the election will aid in the upholding of the laws of America in particular and strengthen the hand of righteous authority everywhere."

The vote demonstrated, above everything else, that as far as Boston was concerned labor, though restless, did not stand for "militant minorities" shrieking for "direct action" and the overthrow of the economic system.

WARNS AGAINST REDS

In his address to the legislature, inaugurating his second term, Gov. Coolidge said:

"Healthful housing, wholesome food, sanitary working conditions, reasonable hours, a fair wage for a fair day's work, opportunity full and free, justice speedy and impatial and at a cost within the reach of all, are among the objects not only to be sought out, but made absolutely certain and secure.

"There are strident voices urging resistance to law in the name of freedom. They are not seeking freedom even for themselves—they have it—they are seeking to enslave others.

"Their works are evil. They know it. They must be resisted. The evil they represent must be overcome by the good others represent. The meaning of America is a power which cannot be overcome. Prosecution of the criminal and education of the ignorant are the remedies. It is fundamental that freedom is not to be secured by disobedience to law. Government must govern. To obey is life. To disobey is death."

James B. Reynolds—"Jimmie" Reynolds, for years the factotum of the national committee—resigned as secretary of the committee to manage Coolidge's campaign, which was based on a platform of "law and order."

VETOES 2.75 PERCENT BEERS

Gov. Coolidge's last important official act was in vetoing a bill legalising 2.75 percent beer in Massachusetts.

"There is little satisfaction in attempting to deceive ourselves," he said, "and there is grave danger in attempting to deceive the people."

The Vice-President elect and Mrs. Coolidge have two sons, Calvin Jr. and John, both in their teens.

The Tiram Estates, Meeting

At the general meeting of the Tiram Estates, Ltd. (in liquidation) held at the offices of the liquidators, 44, Szechuen Road, Shanghai, yesterday at 4:30 p.m. Mr. Mortimer Reid, one of the liquidators, occupied the chair and there were shareholders present representing 20,530 shares in the company.

The notice convening the meeting having been read, the chairman explained that in order to comply with the Companies Ordinance of Hongkong it was necessary for the liquidators, if the winding-up continued for more than a year, to summon a general meeting at the end of the first year, or as soon thereafter as convenient, and to lay before the meeting an account of their acts and dealings during the preceding year. He said:

"Before submitting an account of receipts and disbursements since the commencement of the liquidation, I will briefly recount the circumstances which led up to the board recommending the steps taken at the extraordinary general meeting held in June of last year, namely to wind up the Company.

OVERDRAFT IN 1916

"You will remember that in 1916 the Company found themselves very short of working capital and with a large overdraft at the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank (about Tls. 18,000) requiring repayment. A five years' lease dating from Jan. 1, 1917, was entered into with Mr. S. M. D. King, the former manager of the Estate, whereby he paid off the whole of the overdraft in yearly instalments extending over three years and a rental of $.$7,000 per annum for the last two years, he to take the whole of the output during the tenancy. This method of provision for the repayment of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation was approved and accepted by them. Mr. King, however had not kept his agreement, having paid approximately one year's rent only; he pleaded inability to continue payment owing to the low price of rubber and the very high price of silver. The Bank declared they would wait no longer and if some steps were not taken to repay them they would take possession of your property and sell it. This step was avoided in March 1919 by two shareholders lending the Company Tls. 4,000 which was paid to the Bank.

"This was how matters stood with the Bank and Mr. King when the shareholders met in extraordinary general meeting on June 18, 1919, to decide upon liquidation. At that meeting there was also submitted with the view to reconstruction a report upon the value, the earning capacity and general condition of the estate from Messrs. Sime Darby and Co. This firm valued the Estate at 55.000 Straits dollars (say Tls. 25,000). The approximate position of affairs at that time was that the Company possessed property estimated to realise Tls. 25,000 together with whatever could be recovered from Mr. King for arrears of rent—(Judgment for this had been obtained later and which I will refer to presently)—and against this there were liabilities, balance of bank overdraft, Tls. 11,500; shareholders loan to company to reduce bank overdraft and for current expenses, Tls. 4,500, and unsecured creditors, Tls. 1,500, leaving an estimated surplus (without reckoning upon recovering anything from Mr. King) of Tls. 7,500, which worked out at a fraction over five tael cents per share. It was intended to reconstruct the Company on this basis and shareholders to be invited to subscribe for further shares under the new scheme.

SCHEME IN ABEYANCE

"Now, partly for want of support by the shareholders by way of subscription to the new capital and partly on account of proceedings being taken against Mr. King for the balance of rent owing and to force him to give up the tenancy; the reconstruction scheme has remained in abeyance.

"In December 1919 judgment was obtained against him for the balance of rent to the end of 1918, $17,121 and costs, and he has since paid to account of the Judgment $11,000. In August of this year Mr. King offered to pay up a sum of $6,800, which was about $1,000 more than the judgment obtained and which is calculated on the basis of $10,000 for three years, if the Company would accept that in satisfaction of all claims for rent up to the end of 1919. He also made an offer to purchase the property for $60,000.

"On receipt of this offer I immediately got in touch with some of the principal shareholders and guarantors of the bank claim and they were unanimously of opinion that it was an offer which should receive favorable consideration. I accordingly replied accepting his terms for settlement of the rent agreement, and also his offer for the purchase of the property provided a substantial deposit was paid and completion within a reasonable time. We also made it a condition that Mr. King should waive any claim on the assets of the Company in respect of the 27,087 shares held by him. To which our Lawyers in Singapore replied that Mr. King agreed to forfeit his shares but demands commission $5,000 off purchase price. To which we agreed provided no further commission was paid to anyone in connection with sale.

FINAL AGREEMENT

"It was finally agreed (1) that the balance due under the rent settlement $6,867 should be paid on or about Sept. 10; (2) that a deposit of $6,000 should forthwith be paid on account of purchase money (3) the balance at the end of February 1921 and (4) that the rent of $7,000 for 1920 be paid on December 31 next. I confirmed this by letter on September 23, but not having heard anything further from Singapore in regard to deposit etc., having been paid, I last week cabled the lawyers—in view of the meeting to be held today—and inquiring if Mr. King had settled. The reply came this morning stating that owing to depression Mr. King had been unable to raise money; but he promises to pay substantial deposit this month; meanwhile he has deposited certain securities with us. We advise giving him every chance.

The statement of the winding up shows that in July last the payments by Mr. King to account of the judgment, $9,328.96 (less costs) were remitted to Shanghai and realised Tls. 4,119.31. He had also paid over to the lawyers since $2,133.44.

"The Hongkong Bank claim had now been reduced to Tls. 3,000 by the two shareholders (who had already lent the Company Tls. 4,500) advancing a further Tls. 5,500 and by a payment of Tls. 3,000 from us out of the remittance from Mr. King."

After some discussion and explanation by the Liquidator in regard to the amount owing by Mr. King, the meeting terminated.

YUNGCHUN WALL TORN DOWN AND REFORM MOVE ON

Commander King Active Under Direction Of Li Hao-chi

(China Press Correspondence)

Hinghwa, Fukien, October 26.—It is thought here that the fact of the amicable relations between Governor Li Hao-chi and Chen Chiung-ming are explained in the following manner. Governor Li, as is well known, was a supporter of the Anfu Club. That organisation having fallen into disfavor Governor Li cast about for new allies and determined to throw in his lot with the Yunnan party of the South. Chen Chiung-ming, with the aid of Yunnan troops, was appointed to drive out the Kwangsi intruders in Kwangtung. This being accomplished Fukien and Kwangtung would be connected, the government established with its center in Yunnan. It is thought that Chekiang Province will also join the combination.

By this new arrangement all of Fukien is to revert to the governorship of Li Hao-chi. This would seem to offer an explanation of why the Southern leader, Chen Chiung-ming, is turning over parts of Fukien to Governor Li that have been in the hands of the South for two years. Yungchun and Tehwa counties together with the numerous forces of the South occupying them have been given to Li. The leader of the forces stationed at Yungchun has been given one of the highest titles in the power of the Governor.

IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY

Commander King of Yungchun is displaying real ability to handle reform movements. He has torn down the city wall and is constructing a boulevard in its place. The main business street is being widened from a narrow allylike street to a fine open street 30 feet wide. This has necessitated the tearing down of many shops but King allows nothing to interfere with what he styles "the good of the public." He has constructed a spacious public market building. Temples have been made over into reading rooms.

Women under 40 years of age have been ordered to unbind their feet. If they refuse to do so he has it carried out by his assistants and the ladies duly punished lest they forget his orders and bind up the feet again.

OTHER REFORM MOVEMENTS

He has gathered up all the beggars and opium smokers that were plentiful on the streets of Yungchun and has given them new suits of clothes and put them to work on the roads. The able bodied ones are given regular wages and the weaker ones less wages until they are able to do a full day's work. The pay of the opium smokers is either given in food rations or held on account for them until the opium habit is broken. Thus Yungchun seems one bright spot in the mire of this part of the province.

The news of the famine in the North has greatly moved the people of Hinghwa. A movement has been put on foot to raise funds. A number of the schools of the city have voluntary limited their own rations in order to save a portion to be sent North. Even the teachers of some of the schools have joined in with the students for a limited ration.
